The graduating class of Punchard, numbering 75, will be the guests of the alumni association at the annual banquet to be held on June 22. The annual event will be held in the town hall this year, and it is expected that the attendance will be the largest ever.

Whitcomb will be in charge of the printing of tickets and programs.

Monument Drive Falls Little Short

The monument for the Legion lot at the Spring Grove cemetery will not be built this year because the recent drive for funds failed to produce sufficient money to erect a suitable monument. However, the Legion and the auxiliary have agreed to have an urn placed on the lot, and the Past Presidents of the auxiliary have had a beautiful one placed there.

The money obtained in the recent drive has been deposited in the bank and will be used later when the fund has been added to sufficiently. The urn will remain at the lot even after the monument has been put in place.

Dr. J. B. Davis Speaks to C.C.C.

Dr. Jesse B. Davis of Boston University, who is well known as the author of "Moral and Vocational Guidance," recently spoke to the young men of Co's 110 and 167 C.C.C. on "Planning for Your Job." Dr. Davis stressed the value of education in fitting oneself for a life work.

"A man generally gets a promotion," he said, "after he has already been doing the work of the position ahead." He declared that some men can make themselves like the work they have to do; others must plan on doing what really interests them. Mechanization of industry compelling short hours and uncreative tasks will force people to look to avocational pursuits for happiness.

Dr. Davis was accompanied by Mrs. Lauretta Bresnahan of the Department of Labor, C. K. Brown of the Y.M.C.A., Kenneth Holland of the Office of Education, W. J. Riley of the Boston Y.M.C.A. and Dr. Fred Smith of Harvard University.

Call Special Meeting for Thursday Night

Town Asked to Change Vote on School Bond Issue So That Treasurer May Borrow Immediately from Banks—Playground to Come Up

The Board of Selectmen has called a special town meeting for the evening of Thursday, May 31 at 7.30 to see if the town will change its vote on the P.W.A. school project, so that the treasurer may borrow from the banks rather than from the Federal Government. This will permit the town to proceed at a faster rate on the project, since the treasurer will be enabled to borrow immediately.

The vote last December 11 authorized the construction of a new junior high school at a cost of $406,000 with the funds to be secured from a loan and grant from the Federal Government. Since then, the P.W.A. has authorized a grant of $112,700, and according to the town's vote the whole $406,000 would have to be borrowed from the Federal Government, with the $112,700 being used to pay back principal and interest for the first few years. However, the town under presen market conditions can borrow at a lower rate from the banks than from the Government. It is estimated that there will be a saving of 1 percent on the bond coupon rate.

The town will also be asked to appropriate a sum of money for playground supervision this Summer. In March, $1250 was appropriated for this purpose, but the vote was later declared illegal because the warrant had requested only $750 and no amount mentioned in a warrant may be increased.

The warrant also contains two articles dealing with Lowell Junction road, one asking acceptance of the road by the town and the other asking an unstated amount of money for installing a water extension on that road.

The Lowell junction articles mention no specific sum of money, but estimates prepared by the B. P. W. indicate that the minimum cost will be close to $24,000. To follow the plans mentioned in the warrant, it would be necessary first to bring the road to a rough grade, ready for gravel, at a cost of $8300. Then a foot of gravel would have to be placed on top, the cost being $9400. With E. R. A. labor the water extension cost would be $5,950; without it, it would be $16,497. The pipe has to be extended from a dead end on River street, the total length being 6,110 feet. The road reconstruction would be over a stretch of 4224 feet.

The articles follow:

Article 1. To see if the Town will vote to amend the vote of the Town passed December 11, 1933, authorizing an issue of $406,000 bonds in connection with a Junior High School and other projects and providing that money granted by the Federal Government on account of such projects shall be applied to the extinguishment of the bonds, so that said vote shall be amended in accordance with a Grant Agreement (Docket No. 5197) since obtained from the Federal Government and to provide that the money so granted by the Federal Government shall, instead, be applied toward paying the cost of the work, that the amount of the bonds be accordingly reduced to $293,300, and that in accordance with the present agreement with the Federal Government, the bonds may be sold to other purchasers.

Article 2. To see if the Town will vote to accept as a public way Lowell Junction Road, so called, from River Street to a point opposite the westerly line of property of Joseph E. Frederick, as shown on plan entitled, "plan of a portion of Lowell Junction Road about 2000 ft. easterly and westerly of the Boston & Maine Railroad in the Town of Andover, Robert R. Evans County Engineer, dated May 1934," as approved by the Board of Survey.

Article 3. To see if the Town will vote to appropriate a sum of money to be expended by the Board of Public Works in extending water system from its present dead end on River Street along River Street to Lowell Junction Road and along Lowell Junction Road to the property of Joseph E. Frederick.

Article 4. To see if the Town will vote to appropriate a sum of money to be used for supervised play at the playstead; to be expended under the direction of the Board of Public Works.

Article 5. To see if the Town will vote to pay Public Welfare bills incurred in 1933 to the amount of $8.00.

Article 6. To transact any other business that may legally come before the meeting.

Sue Academy for $30,000 Damages

A suit for $30,000 damages was filed this week in Superior Civil court by Adam Rennie et al against the trustees of Phillips academy as a result of the state school question. The complainants claim that the academy, by paying the state $10,000, had interfered to break a contract that the state had with Mr. Rennie. This is said to be the first of a series of suits to be brought by the land-owners who would have sold their land if the state school plan had gone through.

At the time of the state school question a state official, it is understood, requested that Phillips academy reimburse the state for the expense it had already gone to in options, etc. Phillips academy paid $10,00 to the state as partial reimbursement for the $14,000 already spent. The farm-owners claim that the late Dr. Kline of the department of mental diseases had told them not to make improvements and to move out immediately. The Rennie's were engaged in the strawberry business, and they claim that they abandoned it on Dr. Kline's assurance.

Saving and Wasting

The town meeting next Thursday night offers Andover an excellent chance to save money and to waste money. The meeting, fortunately, was called at the request of the town treasurer who saw an opportunity to save money by changing the school building vote to allow him to borrow money immediately on private loans rather than from the federal government. But other articles have slipped in, articles which will mean a large and unnecessary expenditure of money.

There seems to be no question about the wisdom of adopting the school article and the playground article. Both have been previously accepted by the town, and in one case it merely means a change in the wording of the article so that the project can be financed less expensively. In the other case, it means that the will of the voters, expressed decisively at the March town meeting in favor of appropriating $1250 for playground supervision, will be put into effect. Through a technicality the vote last March proved to be illegal, since only $750 was specified in the article and no amount specified can be increased legally. There was no doubt about the voters' wishes in the matter, however; the vote was a most convincing one.

At this town meeting it might be advisable for the various officials on the town hall stage who are supposed to know the law of town meetings to watch the votes very carefully lest any more illegal votes slip in. Last March one of the town officials should have noticed that something illegal was proposed and should have informed the voters of that fact. It would have spared many of the townspeople much inconvenience.

The playground article states that the money is to be spent under the direction of the Board of Public Works. This board, however, feels that the nature of the work is such that some other group should have charge of it. It would seem much more advisable for some group similar to the Pomps pond committee to be appointed, some group which could devote its full time to the work.

The two articles dealing first with the acceptance of Lowell Junction road and then with the construction of a water extension along the road do not mention any specified sum of money. However, the voters should know that this project will entail a huge expense, and they should go to town meeting and defeat it. In the first place the road would have to be brought to a rough grade, ready for gravel. The estimated cost on this is $8300. The plan of reconstruction calls for the elimination of many curves and in some cases means changing the grade twelve feet. Then before the road would be fit for travel it would be necessary to have a foot of gravel on top, and this, without tarring, would cost $9400, making a total of $17,700, which must be spent before the water main can be installed. If the town were able to secure ERA labor for the water project, it would cost $5,950, and if ERA labor were not available it would cost $16,497. In other words the minimum cost would be nearly $24,000, which is an enormous investment when it is considered that only ten families will be serviced by the extension.

Several years ago the town approved in Shawsheen Village the construction of Topping road and Juliette street. However, before approval was given, the residents of that section used to spend their evenings working on the roadway. They had the stone bounds put in, they built up the roads to the required grade, and in general prepared the road for acceptance by the town. This should be done in the Lowell Junction case, too. If citizens in one part of the town are required to do all the preliminary work on their roads, the citizens in the rest of the town should do the same.

The warrant contains another article asking authority for the paying of 1933 public welfare bills amounting to $8.00. Some claimants against the town have the bad habit of forgetting that municipal books have to be closed soon after the fiscal year expires. Accordingly, they fail to send in their bills in time, and in order to be paid they have to be mentioned in town meeting. If the town votes "No" on this, the bill will be unpaid, but it is assumed that Andover, unlike the neighboring city in which a small group have held up payment of 1933 wages and other accounts, will pay the bills it has contracted.

Health Association Chooses Officers

Dr. W. Dacre Walker was elected to the Essex County Health Association executive committee at the annual dinner and meeting of the Essex County Health Association held Wednesday evening. More than 125 persons interested in the work of this county-wide association were in attendance. Mrs. Carl F. Pfatteicher and Miss Anna Kuhn were elected directors and Frederick Butler and Dr. Walker were chosen directors at large.

The guest speaker, Dr. Henry D. Chadwick, state commissioner of public health, speaking on "Problems on Tuberculosis Work" stated that, "the caring of tuberculosis patients requires the skill and knowledge gained only by years of experience and such care and treatment should not be left for the private physician but for the county sanatorium, where the proper care and treatment can be readily provided."

Continuing, Dr. Chadwick added, "that in Massachusetts we are losing about 2,300 persons annually from tuberculosis, but it is on the decline. In 1910 there were 157 deaths per 100,000 in Massachusetts, whereas in 1933 there were but 53 deaths per 100,000, a decrease of 66 2-3 percent within the last 23 years."

"Early diagnosis, case finding, and the treatment of cases were cited as the means of stamping out the disease. During the past 10 years, over 400,000 children have been examined by the Chadwick Clinics and of this number more than 100,000 children have been X-rayed. Three out of every hundred children have children type tuberculosis and one child out of 650 has the adult type tuberculosis. In Massachusetts, 3,000, out of 900,000 children have the adult type tuberculosis."

In closing, Dr. Chadwick, congratulated Essex County for its fine sanatorium and the Essex County Health Association for its untiring efforts to check this disease and stated that many of the cases could be checked sooner if there were more beds to hospitalize the cases immediately upon knowledge of the symptoms.

Miss Jean V. Latimer, health educational secretary of the Massachusetts Tuberculosis League expressed the appreciation of the League for the fine program of the Essex County Health Association in developing continuous professional methods in the Essex Sanatorium labatory, which have proved beneficial to the county and state of Massachusetts. Frank L. Kiernan, executive secretary of the League spoke briefly on the recent meeting of the National Tuberculosis Association which was held in Cincinnati, Ohio. That Association reported that in 1933 there were 75,000 deaths from tuberculosis, and over 500,000 known cases of tuberculosis throughout the United States.

Annual reports were read by Miss Vera B. Griffin, field secretary, Miss Rae E. Kaufer, health educational secretary, and Robert C. Seamans, treasurer, Dr. Pettingill, superintendent of the Essex Sanatorium, spoke briefly and expressed his thanks for the large group in attendance.

Miss Christine B. Higgins, secretary of the Haverhill Tuberculosis Association, and Edward J. Noonan, Jr., in charge of the Association's publicity program attended this meeting.

Girl Cadets Hold Two Prize Drills

Co. S. Girl Cadets of the Shawsheen School held an exhibition and prize drill on Monday evening in the Shawsheen School hall before an audience of over one hundred and fifty parents and friends. Officers of Co. D from John Dove School were special guests. Wednesday evening Co. D gave an exhibition at Punchard hall.

The School Band assisted in the Shawsheen program by rendering four fine selections under the able direction of the music supervisor, Miss Miriam Sweeney.

The cadets were organized and trained by Miss Alice M. Olliff, drawing supervisor.

The program was carried on entirely by the respective officers. First Sergeant Dorothy Christie followed by the Mascot, little Miriam Dearborn of Grade I and Captain Barbara Gahm entered the hall. Upon receiving a recognized salute from the Sergeant, Mascot Dearborn sounded the whistle for company to assemble. The Sergeant formed her company of thirty-one girls and turned the command over to the Captain. Captain Gahm directed the work for the first round of eighteen exercises. Mr. Joseph McCarthy and Mr. Coleman of the American Legion willingly gave their services for the evening and acted as judges during the physical exercises.

First Lieutenant Eleanor Houston returned with fifteen girls for the second round. The third round, containing eight girls, under second lieutenant Priscilla Moss, was well directed. At this point the judges were unable to make their decision and asked to have three girls returned to the floor for a fourth round. Tired but plucky they completed seventy-five exercises with as much interest as in the first round.

The entire company again under the command of Captain Gahm executed a few marching movements they had learned.

Mr. McCarthy then complimented the Cadets and Miss Olliff on their work and spoke of the hard task they had had to make a decision. He announced the prize winners as follows: First Prize, Sergeant Dorothy Christie the award being presented by John Collins; Second prize, Private Agens Fritchy presented by Richard Simmers; and Third prize, Private Thelma Fairweather, presented by Wright Bolton.

Mascot Dearborn presented Miss Sweeney with flowers and thanked her and the band for their assistance.

Lieutenant Houston surprised Miss Olliff with a lovely bouquet and a few words of thanks as an expression of appreciation from the Cadets.

Co. D. Exhibition

Co. D Girl Cadets of the John Dove School held an exhibition and prize drill on Wednesday, before a most appreciative audience of parents and friends. Officers of Co. S from the Shawsheen School were special guests.

The School Band rendered four selections during the program, under the direction of the music supervisor, Miss Miriam Sweeney.

The company, composed of forty-seven girls from grades three through the sixth, presented a successful demonstration of their work, conducted entirely by the respective officers. First Sergeant Madeline Grout, followed by the Mascot, little Ruth Anderson of Grade I and Captain Eleanor Gorrie were the first to make their entrance. The Mascot, after proper salutes, sounded the whistle for the company to assemble. The Sergeant formed her company and then turned the command over to the Captain. Capt. Gorrie, with calmness and precision, directed the work for the first round of eighteen exercises.

Mr. Joseph McCarthy and Mr. Christie of the American Legion acted as judges during the physical exercises.

The second round containing twenty-four girls returned to the floor under the command of First Lieutenant Margaret Gordon. Second Lieutenant Esther Cairnie had charge of the third round. The fourth round was composed of five girls, and from this group the judges passed the following decision, First Prize, Ruth Porter, presented by James Carmichael, Second Prize, Gladys Martinson presented by Clifford Stowers, and Third Prize, Sergt. Pauline Peters presented by Joseph Payne.

A fine demonstration of marching under the command of Capt. Gorrie received considerable applause each time they made a decided change in movement.

Mascot Anderson presented Miss Sweeney with flowers and thanked her for the music. Lieut. Gordon expressed to Miss Olliff the appreciation of the company for her work and presented her with flowers.

The members of the John Dove faculty have noticed a decided change for better posture and physical development of many children.

Addison Gallery Has New Exhibit

The Addison Gallery, in a series of exhibitions, has shown the trend of contemporary design in machine made products including glass, silver and textiles. The current exhibition which is on view until June 24 consists of furniture, lighting fixtures, chromium and copper objects selected from the standpoint of design, function and adaptability to present day needs. While the furniture has been designed for use in a modern setting, the upholstered pieces could be used with the classical furniture forms of the early 19th century. The metal furniture, on the other hand, lends itself to the decorative scheme of the average house in the more informal rooms, the solarium, recreation room, the outside porch and terrace.

Until recently the so called "modern movement" has been essentially European, beginning with the Paris Exposition of 1925. Furniture designed and made abroad, imported for the most part to this country by interior decorators, has reached a comparatively small public.

Today, several American firms, one of which is represented in this exhibition, are putting modern furniture into quantity production, thereby lowering the price. The favorable reception which this furniture has had commercially suggests the probability of a greater market in the field of home decoration, by better design, and a careful consideration of materials employed.

Chromium products have found a definite place in contemporary decoration since they are serviceable and inexpensive. Attention has been paid to beauty of design as well as to utility, with the result that a number of well-designed articles have been created that are modern in feeling, yet harmonious with other non-metal objects.

The Addison Gallery wishes to acknowledge its indebtedness to A. Everett Austin, Jr., D. O. Hallstrom, Jr., Clare W. Hayes, Philip Johnson, Gertrude A. Kennedy, H. R. Millard, Warren K. Moorehead, Reginald B. Pawle, James T. Soby, Kurt Versen, and to the following organizations who by their helpful cooperation have made possible this exhibition: Chase Brass and Copper Company, Boston; Howell Furniture Company, Geneva, Illinois; Andrew Dutton Company, Boston Distributors; Thonet Brothers, Inc., New York; John F. Brosseau, Boston Distributor; United States Bunting Company, Lowell; Kurt Versen, Inc., New York; Wadsworth Atheneum, Hartford, Connecticut.

Employment Counsellor Talks to C. C. C Boys

Mr. William H. Shumway, president of William H. Shumway Inc. Employment Counsellors, last night addressed the members of Co's. 110 and 167 Harold Parker State Forest on "The Technique of Finding a Job."

Mr. Shumway, whose work consists of finding employees at an employer's request, was thereby in good position to give practical hints to his audience on where to look for work and how to approach an employer.

The first step in seeking work is listing all the assets one has to offer an employer, then scanning the job-market in directories, newspapers, and business districts; and selecting that position which requires the individuals' qualifications.

To gain the favorable attention of the employer a letter should be clear and concise, and free from exaggeration. Persistence and ingenuity are required to secure an interview. One's appearance must be neat and clean.

A job seeker has more chance of success if he thinks not so much about himself as what the employer needs and if he drops that I-point-of-view for a you-point-of-view.

The young men who will soon be required by regulations to leave the C.C.C. listend intently to Mr. Shumway's advice and at the end of his talk applauded him enthusiastically.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars auxiliary held one of its most successful whist parties in the post rooms last night for the benefit of the National Home at Eaton Rapids, Mich. Grange News

A most interesting and instructive Grange meeting was held on Tuesday evening. Visitors were present from North Reading, Methuen, Montague, Danvers and Rumford, Rhode Island. Assistant Postmaster Frank McDonald gave a talk on, "Behind the Scenes in the Andover Post office." Few previously understood the real work that goes on everyday there but his talk made many things clear, among others being that only as the public cooperates with the post office can the best service be given. Songs and dances, a talk by Henry J. Maguire, Directory Clerk of Lowell Post Office and a talk by Lester Hayward of North Reading completed an enjoyable program. Refreshments were served by Assistant Steward, Raymond Keating.

The Town Team

Playing against three very mediocre teams since last Friday the Andover Town Team compiled the imposing record of one victory and two defeats. This is the fifth week that the team has been operating, and it has not yet begun to function smoothly. Three needs stand out at the present time. The first of these is for better competition. Even though the team were defeated more times than they won, they would learn something about baseball. A heady team would have made the Town Team look foolish Wednesday night, and yet the local boys would have profited by it.

Furthermore, the team has been handicapped by the fact that it has been working without the aid of a responsible director. his has been the big trouble all year. Charley Bowman, who was first elected manager of the team, was the leader during the first three games. Because of his work in the Federal office of the E.R.A., he was able to attend only one of these games, and as a result he resigned. The governing board the nelected Everett Collins. His election made him just about the busiest man in town, and as a result of his many duties he has been able to be present at only one of the six games since he was chosen. Fortunately with the coming of the summer season his other duties will be lessened, and he will soon be able to direct the team personally. Mr. Collins is respected by the players and should make a good manager, but at present things are in a bad state with none of the many managers pro tem daring to take any of the drastic measure that are necessary before the team can get back on the right track.

Thirdly, we will make the current opinion among the fans unanimous by agreeing that the team should have at least one good practice session every week, with a little skull work added now and then at a night meeting. The hitting is way below par, and the fielding in certain positions is very uncertain. This must also be carried on under responsible leadership and goes back to the second need we mentioned.

There are many other things that could be done to help the team but these appear to be the outstanding ones at present.

The first defeat of the week (the Townsman's week) was a most humiliating one at the hands of a bunch of typical South Lawrencians, calling themselves this time the Cartier Club. ureviously they had appeared at the playstead under the names of Jcuberts and South Broadway Club. The local team had been having it very esay, coasting along on top of a 4-0 lead, and when they still held this lead with two out in the last inning they began making plans for the week-end. If they had been stacked against a good team, they would not have let up as they did but would have been on the alert. But they did let up, and in typical Red Sox style booted their four run lead. The Cartiers piled upsix runs and would still be at it, if some one on the bench had not called to the attention of the players that one of the runners had failed to touch first base. This man was retired and the rally thus ended.

The game was a scries of arguments by the opposing team with the umpire on points which aren't even debated by the players on the third and fourth grade teams at John Dove. If the rally had not netted the Cartiers enough runs to win, a riot call would have had to be sounded at the end of the game. As far as Andover is concerned the Cartiers can stay over on South Broadway, although it would be nice to play them once more and defeat them 20-0 as the local team could if they were fuctioning properly.

On Sunday afternoon the locals beat the Allens of Lawrence, 4-1, in a not very thrilling game. The antics of Mr. Rys, the Lawrence catcher, was the only thing that put any life into the game at all. The one bright spot from the local viewpoint was a nice squeeze play engineered by Pete O'Connor and Sammy Deyermond with the latter doing the bunting. The sad thing, however, is the realization that this very handy play can't be used all the time because there are only two men on the team who know how to bunt. The rest are followers of Ruth and Foxx.

Wednesday night the team went to North Andover to play the neighboring town team, whom they had already beaten 5-3. This time it was just the opposite with the Turkeytowners landing on top by the same score. The local team made three hits against the pitching of Coach Mitchell of Johnson, two of them by Fred Sullivan, who in his other actual time at bat was walked. On Sunday afternoon the two teams will meet again with the local boys wearing their new uniforms for the first time. The visitors have, since their last appearance here, been newly outfitted also with gray and blue. The game is scheduled to start at three o'clock.

The Andover League

The Andover League will start its season Monday night with the Townsman meeting the Andover Steam Laundry. Two more teams have been added to the league, and last week's games which had been announced as the opening games have been stricken from the records. On Tuesday night Greeley's will meet Pioneers and on Thursday Miller's Shoe store will oppose Ballardvale. er's Pioneers. Tuesday last, the Townsman boys thought they were just about to win a ball game when some thunder clouds came up scaring their opponents, the Laundry, who strangely didn't care to get wet-washed. The score at the time was tied at two runs. The Townsman will no doubt take the starch out of the Laundry in the opener on Monday. The Pioneers slaughtered the Greeley team 12-2 in their tussle last Monday. Just to be nasty the Pioneers staged a seven-run uprising in the first inning, with poor Earl Urban scoring his first game nearly going insane as a result.

One of the Houses Which Will Be Open to Public Tomorrow

THE SAMARITAN HOUSE ON SCHOOL STREET, FORMERLY THE HOME OF DR. ALFRED E. STEARNS

Historical Homes Open Tomorrow

Andover's old historical homes will be opened tomorrow from 2 to 6 p.m. to visitors for the benefit of the local Red Cross Nursing Committee. The admission fee for the entire list of eight homes and a wedding pageant will be $1.00.

Romance will be written into the beautiful pageant to be held on the grounds of the Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Johnson estate at 5 p.m. Here in the Samuel Abbot House built about 1796, and occupied for a time by Deacon Newman in 1817, brides and maidens fair, dressed in wedding gowns dating from 1777 to the late 20's will march in stately dignity.

Within a stone's throw from the Samuel Abbot House is the Soloman Higgins House, site of the 2nd George Abbot homestead of the 17th century. Mrs. Nathaniel Bartlett, owner, has reclaimed much of the original beauty of the present structure built in 1734. Its interior is a lure to all lovers of antique and historic homes.

Elm knoll, residence of Deacon Daniel Poor, built in 1763, and now the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Gibson Brown is architecturally one of the finest in town.

Mr. Charles Arnold's quaint home, with its rare antiques, was undoubtedly built about 1680 by shiprights. It originally had a long slanting roof almost to the ground at the rear, and a well sweep just outside the door. This well is now covered by the Ell, which was added to the house in 1823.

On the Hill, Phelps House with its fine doorway and Palladean window above, former home of Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, novelist and now the home of Dr. and Mrs. Claude M. Fuess will extend its usual hospitable welcome to all who enter its portals.

In 1816, to "Faculty Row" was added the Woods House erected by bequest of Samuel Abbot Esq., to Prof. Leonard Woods, and now occupied by Dr. and Mr. Pierscn S. Page.

The so-called "Samaritan House" now the home of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Poynter was built in 1824. Its origin and purpose was to serve as an infirmary for "Theologues". Here in later years Mrs. Stowe wrote her "Key to Uncle Tom's Cabin." The Andover Historical Society house at 97 Main street built in 1819 by Deacon Amos Blanchard, will undoubtedly prove a rare treat to visitors on Saturday.

Here may be purchased tickets which will admit to all the homes opened for the occasion including the Wedding Pageant.

Visitors to the pageant only will be admitted to the grounds at the entrance for a small fee (.25).

The Pageant Committee follows: Mrs. George French, Miss Anna Kuhn, Mrs. Mitchell Johnson and Miss Alice Jenkins.
